

Interview Case Study Guidelines

Brand Advocate Analyst

The Brand Advocate program partners with our suppliers to fully optimize their e-Commerce strategy with Home Depot Canada. We provide strategic insights, analytics, deep dive analysis and digital content enrichments to help drive traffic and conversions on Homedepot.ca.

The Brand Advocate Analyst supports supplier partners (one or more top-tier brands) in optimizing their brand's e-Commerce performance on HomeDepot.ca by analyzing key metrics and customer behavior, enhancing digital content on Product Information Pages (PIPs) to boost visibility, traffic, and conversions, and delivering actionable insights and strategic recommendations based on data analysis.

This role involves collaborating with cross-functional teams while maintaining ownership of the e-Commerce content strategy and building strong relationships with supplier partners and internal stakeholders, including senior leaders.

The Case Study:

Purpose:

We want to see how you apply e-Commerce strategy, data analysis, and storytelling in a real-world scenario. Specifically, we're assessing your ability to:

- Understand the e-Commerce industry and digital content strategy.
 - Analyze data and extract insights.
 - Communicate clearly, concisely and persuasively.
 - Build an engaging PowerPoint presentation.
 - Recommend actionable improvements for a brand on HomeDepot.ca.
-

Your Task:

Create a 5–7 slide PowerPoint presentation based on the guidelines below.

Step 1: Choose a Brand

- Pick one brand sold on HomeDepot.ca (preferably a smaller, less-known brand for more opportunity).
 - Assume you are presenting directly to the brand.
-

Step 2: Use the Provided Data

- Analyze the raw dataset. Please note: The dataset provided contains fictional data created for this exercise. It is not based on actual Home Depot performance.
- Highlight online performance from the supplier's perspective.
- Calculate and present key KPIs, such as:
 - Conversion Rate
 - Average Order Value (AOV)
 - Year-over-Year Growth
 - Online Product Visits
 - Orders
 - Ratings
- Add any extra KPIs you think add value.

- Clearly state any assumptions you make.
-

Step 3: Focus on the Digital Shelf:

- Review Product Information Pages (PIPs) – the digital shelf where Brand Advocates have the most impact.
 - Analyze how PIPs support or hinder the customer journey and purchase decision.
 - Identify strengths and areas for improvement in digital content.
 - Think through the entire customer purchase journey for both online and in-store shopping, and how we can create an interconnected experience across channels (Home Depot has stores across Canada).
-

Step 4: Provide Recommendations:

- Share actionable, prioritized recommendations to improve the brand's e-Commerce performance.
 - Focus on:
 - Content optimization
 - Search and findability.
 - Digital shelf enhancements
 - Do NOT include recommendations about:
 - Pricing or promotions
 - Paid advertising or social media
 - Website UX outside Product Information Pages
 - Website capabilities/features
-

Step 5: Outline a 12-Month Project Plan

- Show how you would implement your recommendations over the next year.

Presentation Tips

- Make slides visual and engaging (charts, graphs, tables).
- Communicate insights clearly.
- Present as if you are presenting directly to the vendor. (the client)
- Prepare to answer questions after your 10–15 minute presentation.

Disclaimer: By submitting your responses to this Interview Assignment, you consent to the use of your responses (including any ideas, suggestions, proposals, etc.) (collectively, the “Submission”) by Home Depot. You irrevocably authorize Home Depot to use, edit, create derivative works of, your Submission on a perpetual basis in any medium, format, and jurisdiction. You irrevocably transfer and assign to Home Depot, your right, title, interest, and copyrights, if any, in the Submission, and you waive in favour of Home Depot, any moral rights, worldwide, in the Submission. You acknowledge that Home Depot has no liability to me for any editing or alteration of the Submission.